Long, long ago, there was a beautiful land called Creamland. The land was a home to a variety of scrumptious creamy desserts, delicious cherry and berry flavoured cakes, yummy sorbets and ice creams to die for, and many more!

Creamland was ruled by the wise and charming King Cone. He was admired throughout the land for his loving way of keeping all his desserts happy.

He did everything in his power to ensure they held their shape and remained cold and flavourful!

One day, the king's minister, Pep the Popsicle, rushed to the king in a frenzy...

What is the matter, Pep?

Your Majesty, something is wrong with our Creamland. Please come with me to the icy TV room right away!

What King Cone saw shocked him to his very core. Creamland was melting! All the desserts including ice creams, cupcakes and chocolates were dripping! The temperature in Creamland was rising! “But how did this happen?” King Cone asked Pep with concern.

King Cone and Minister Pep immediately sat in their icy flying cup to
wrong in Creamland...

They could not believe their own eyes. All the desserts, be it a softy or a brownie, a berry or a chocolate flavoured pie, all of them had started to melt!

King Cone was worried, "I wonder why have all my citizens begun to melt?"

Suddenly, they heard a big roaring laugh. King Cone and Minister Pep had never heard such a sinister laugh in Creamland before! Looking around, they saw a huge monster like figure.

The monster started laughing loudly as he saw the king. "Who is this?" King Cone whispered to Pep in amazement, "It looks like a heat monster, Your Majesty!" replied Minister Pep.

I am the Hot
Lava Cake Monster!

“I have come to see your land. Although your land is renowned for being very cold and sweet, it seems that your sweet flavoured citizens are only cold from outside, but hot from inside! Soon your land will heat up and that in turn will make me grow bigger and stronger.

I will ruin your land!”

What was the monster trying to say?

“Your Majesty, it is time to declare war with this monster!” Minister Pep fumed. At that very moment, King Cone saw the minister begin to drip. “Pep you have started melting too!” “Wh-what? N-no!” Pep was scared now. King Cone stroked his chocolate moustache as if in deep thought and then spoke up, “Pep, I think we are dealing with something far more dangerous than this huge monster out here.”

What was King Cone trying to say?

“Let’s take a stroll
Pep,” said King
Cone. And what did they see?

You broke my fry cycle! What did you do?

How dare you touch my pie
phone!

After witnessing many such situations, King Cone, with his sharp wits, said to the minister...
“Pep, it is this anger inside them that is taking over. That is the real reason why they are melting...”
But King Cone was in a fix. How could he turn the situation around?

The king called for all his advisers to discuss this serious matter. His eldest adviser, Uncle Cookies and Cream Ice-Cream, walked up to the king. His shape was perfect, his cream was intact, and he had a bright smile on his face.

“Greetings, Your Majesty! I have a solution for this crisis.”

King Cone replied excitedly, “Really, how?”.
He suggested that King Cone should hold a contest. King Cone was very happy to oblige. Anything to save his beloved land.
The day of the contest arrived. All the desserts of Creamland excitedly gathered together in the courtyard.

Uncle Cookies and Cream announced, “Welcome sweet citizens. Come one, come all, a chance to participate in today's contest and win a surprise gift! The contest requires you to have to look at yourself in the mirror. The one who has the most beautiful, intact shape and decoration will win. Well, charming candies and ice creams... Let the contest begin.”

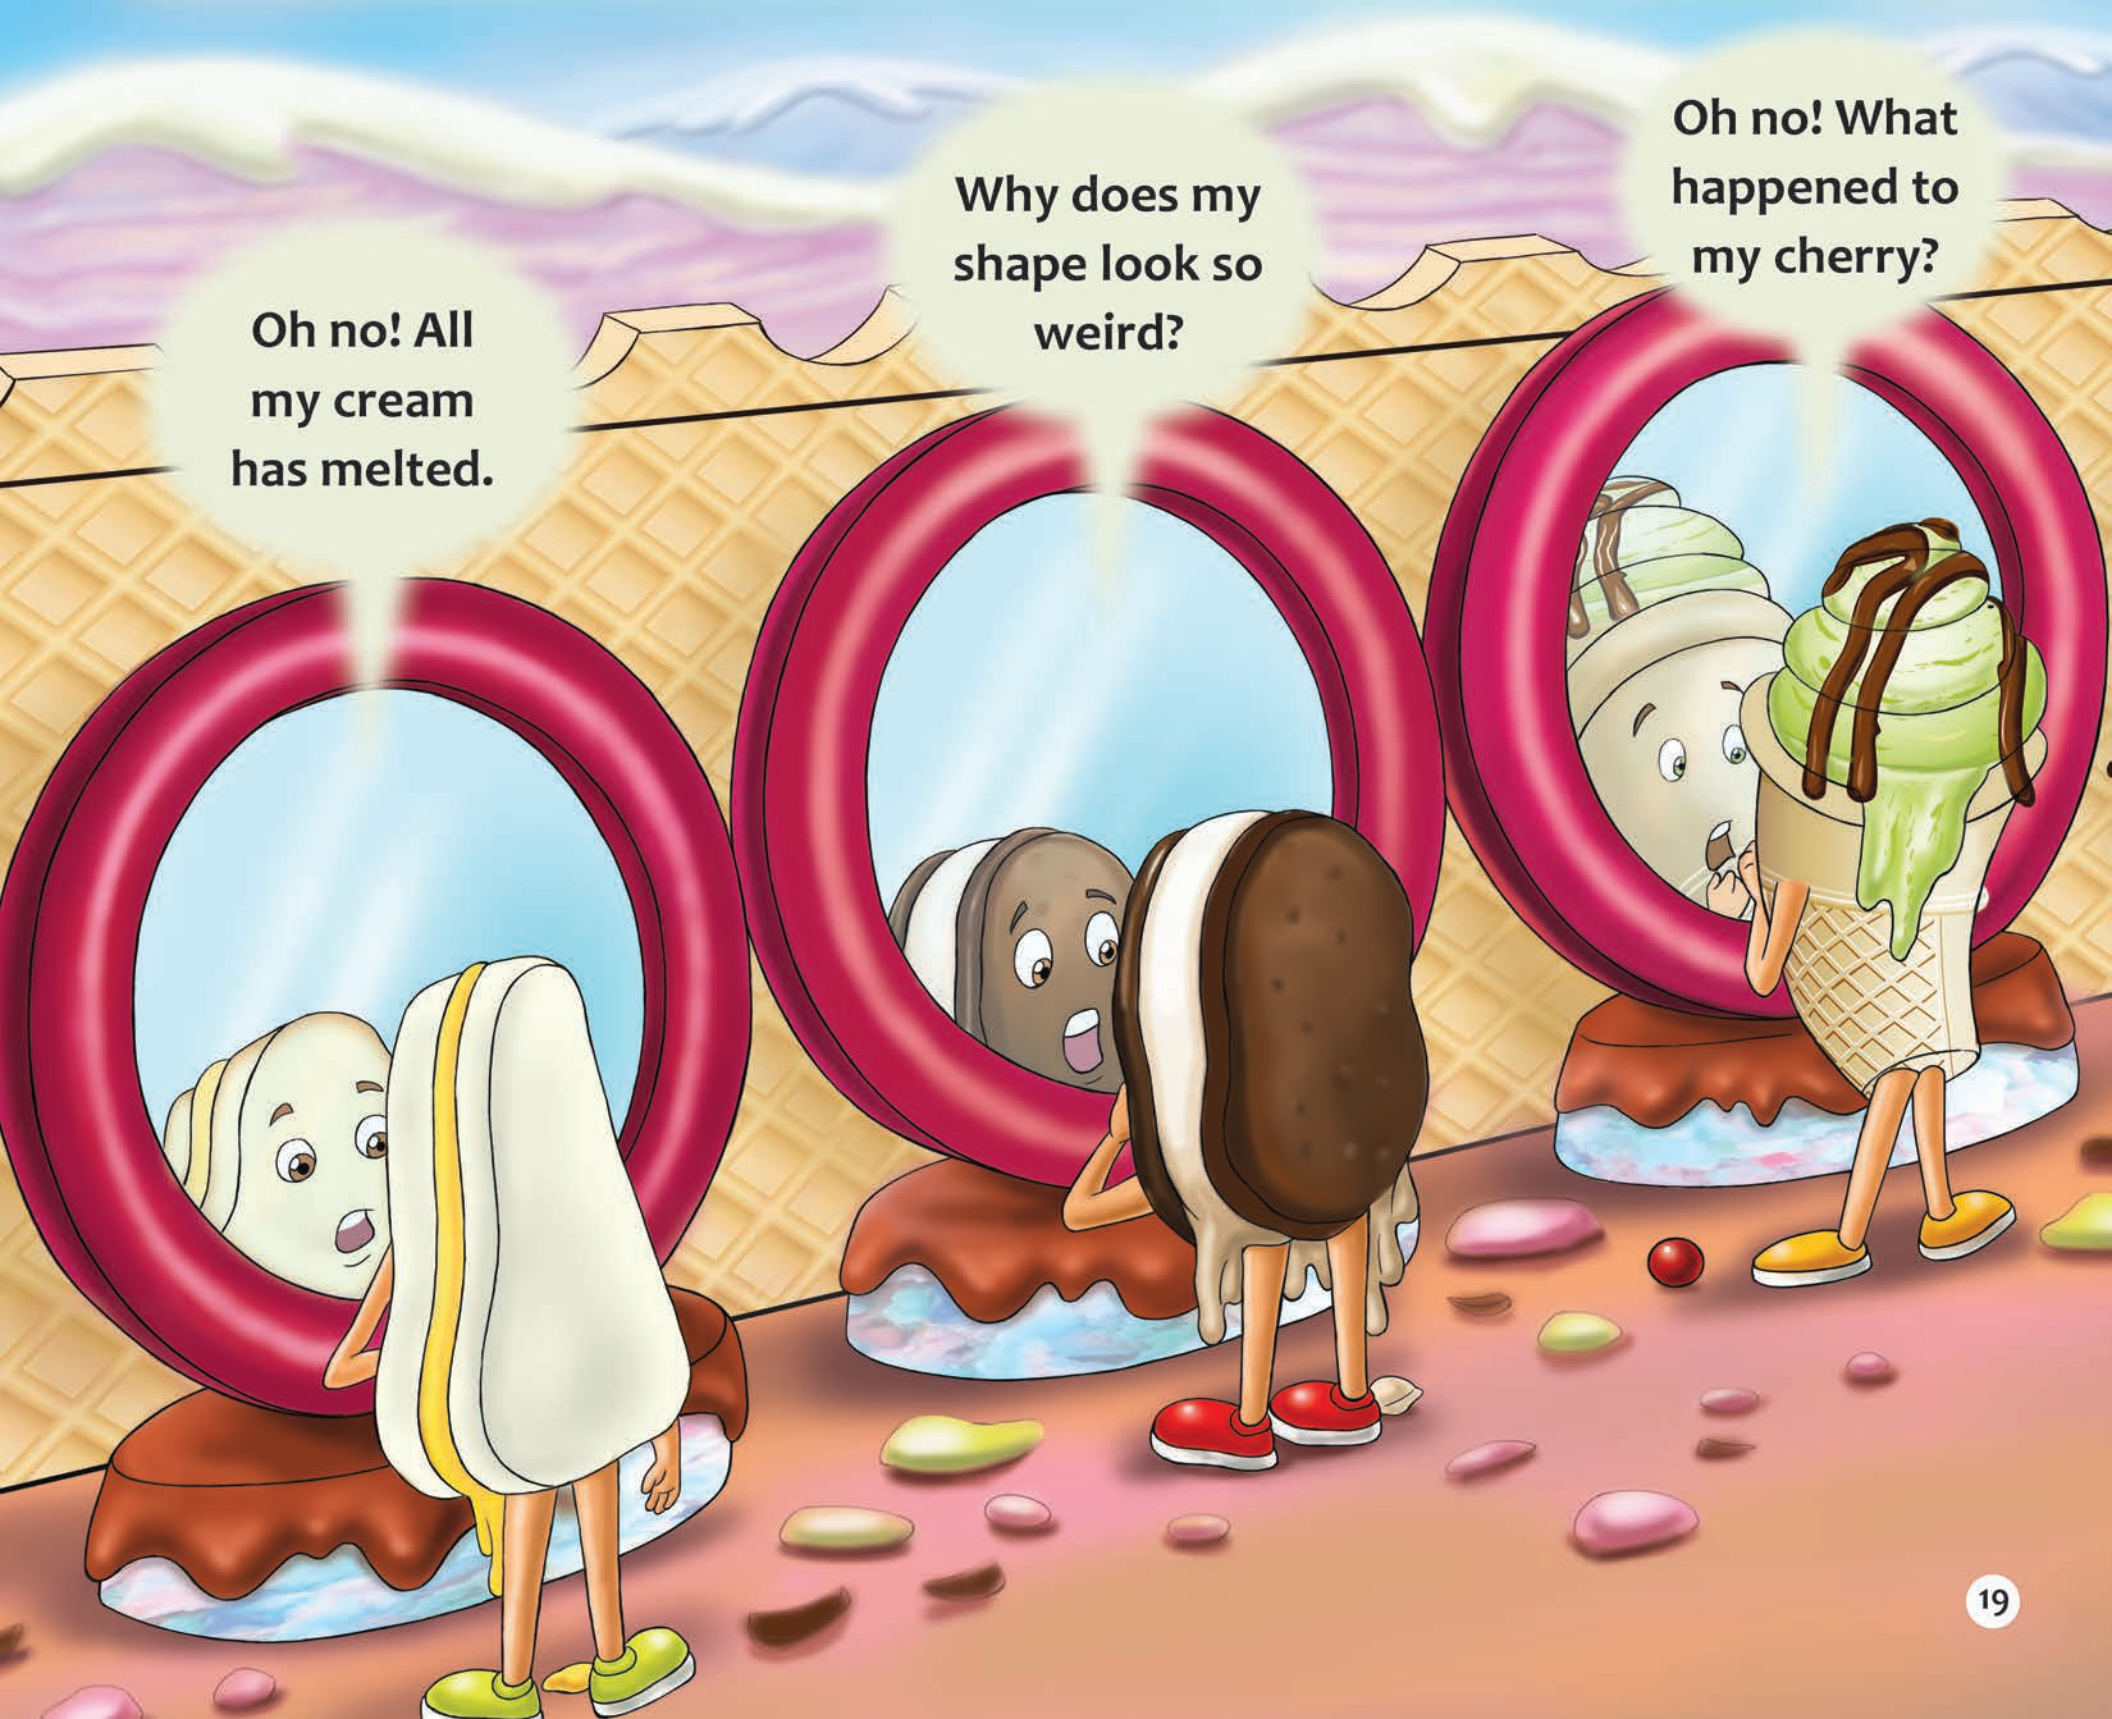

With an air of excitement, all started looking at themselves in the mirrors... and to their dismay, all the desserts were neither as beautiful as before nor did they have their perfect shapes.

Oh no! All my cream has melted.

Why does my shape look so weird?

Oh no! What happened to my cherry?

Suddenly, the huge Hot Lava Cake monster appeared. It had grown very big now. All of them were stunned to see the monster. “Hey you, monster, you have spoiled our beauty! You are growing in size and we are melting!” squealed Baby Chocolate Bar. At the same time, Baby Vanilla Sundae noticed something. “Hey, you all, look at Uncle Cookies and Cream! His cream is not melting. How is that possible?” she shouted.

King Cone replied to that, “because Uncle Cookies and Cream doesn't get angry with anyone!”

And lo and behold! All the desserts came to the sudden realisation, “Oh! It's our anger that is causing us to look ugly, nothing else!”

“I want my shape back now. How do I get it?” Softy asked in desperation.

“Whenever I get angry at anyone, I ask for forgiveness by heartily saying sorry to the person I have hurt and make sure I never do it again. That way my temperature remains stable, my shape remains intact, and my ice-cream does not melt.” Uncle Cookies and Cream Ice-cream replied. Baby Candy Bar was eager to get her shape back so she exclaimed loudly, “What are we all waiting for then?!”

Baby Candy Bar went to her brother and apologised, “I am sorry, for getting angry at you for the fry-cycle. It wasn't your fault.” With that she gave him a big hug.

Strawberry Cupcake giving his pie phone to her cheese cake sister said, “You can use this whenever you need it, sis! I am so sorry for getting angry at you.”

As they asked for forgiveness, the desserts began to regain their shape, their minds and their temperature started to cool down. King Cone was happy to see all this on the streets of Creamland and declared that they had all won the contest.

He presented everyone with freshly baked cookie badges. 🍪

Sorry

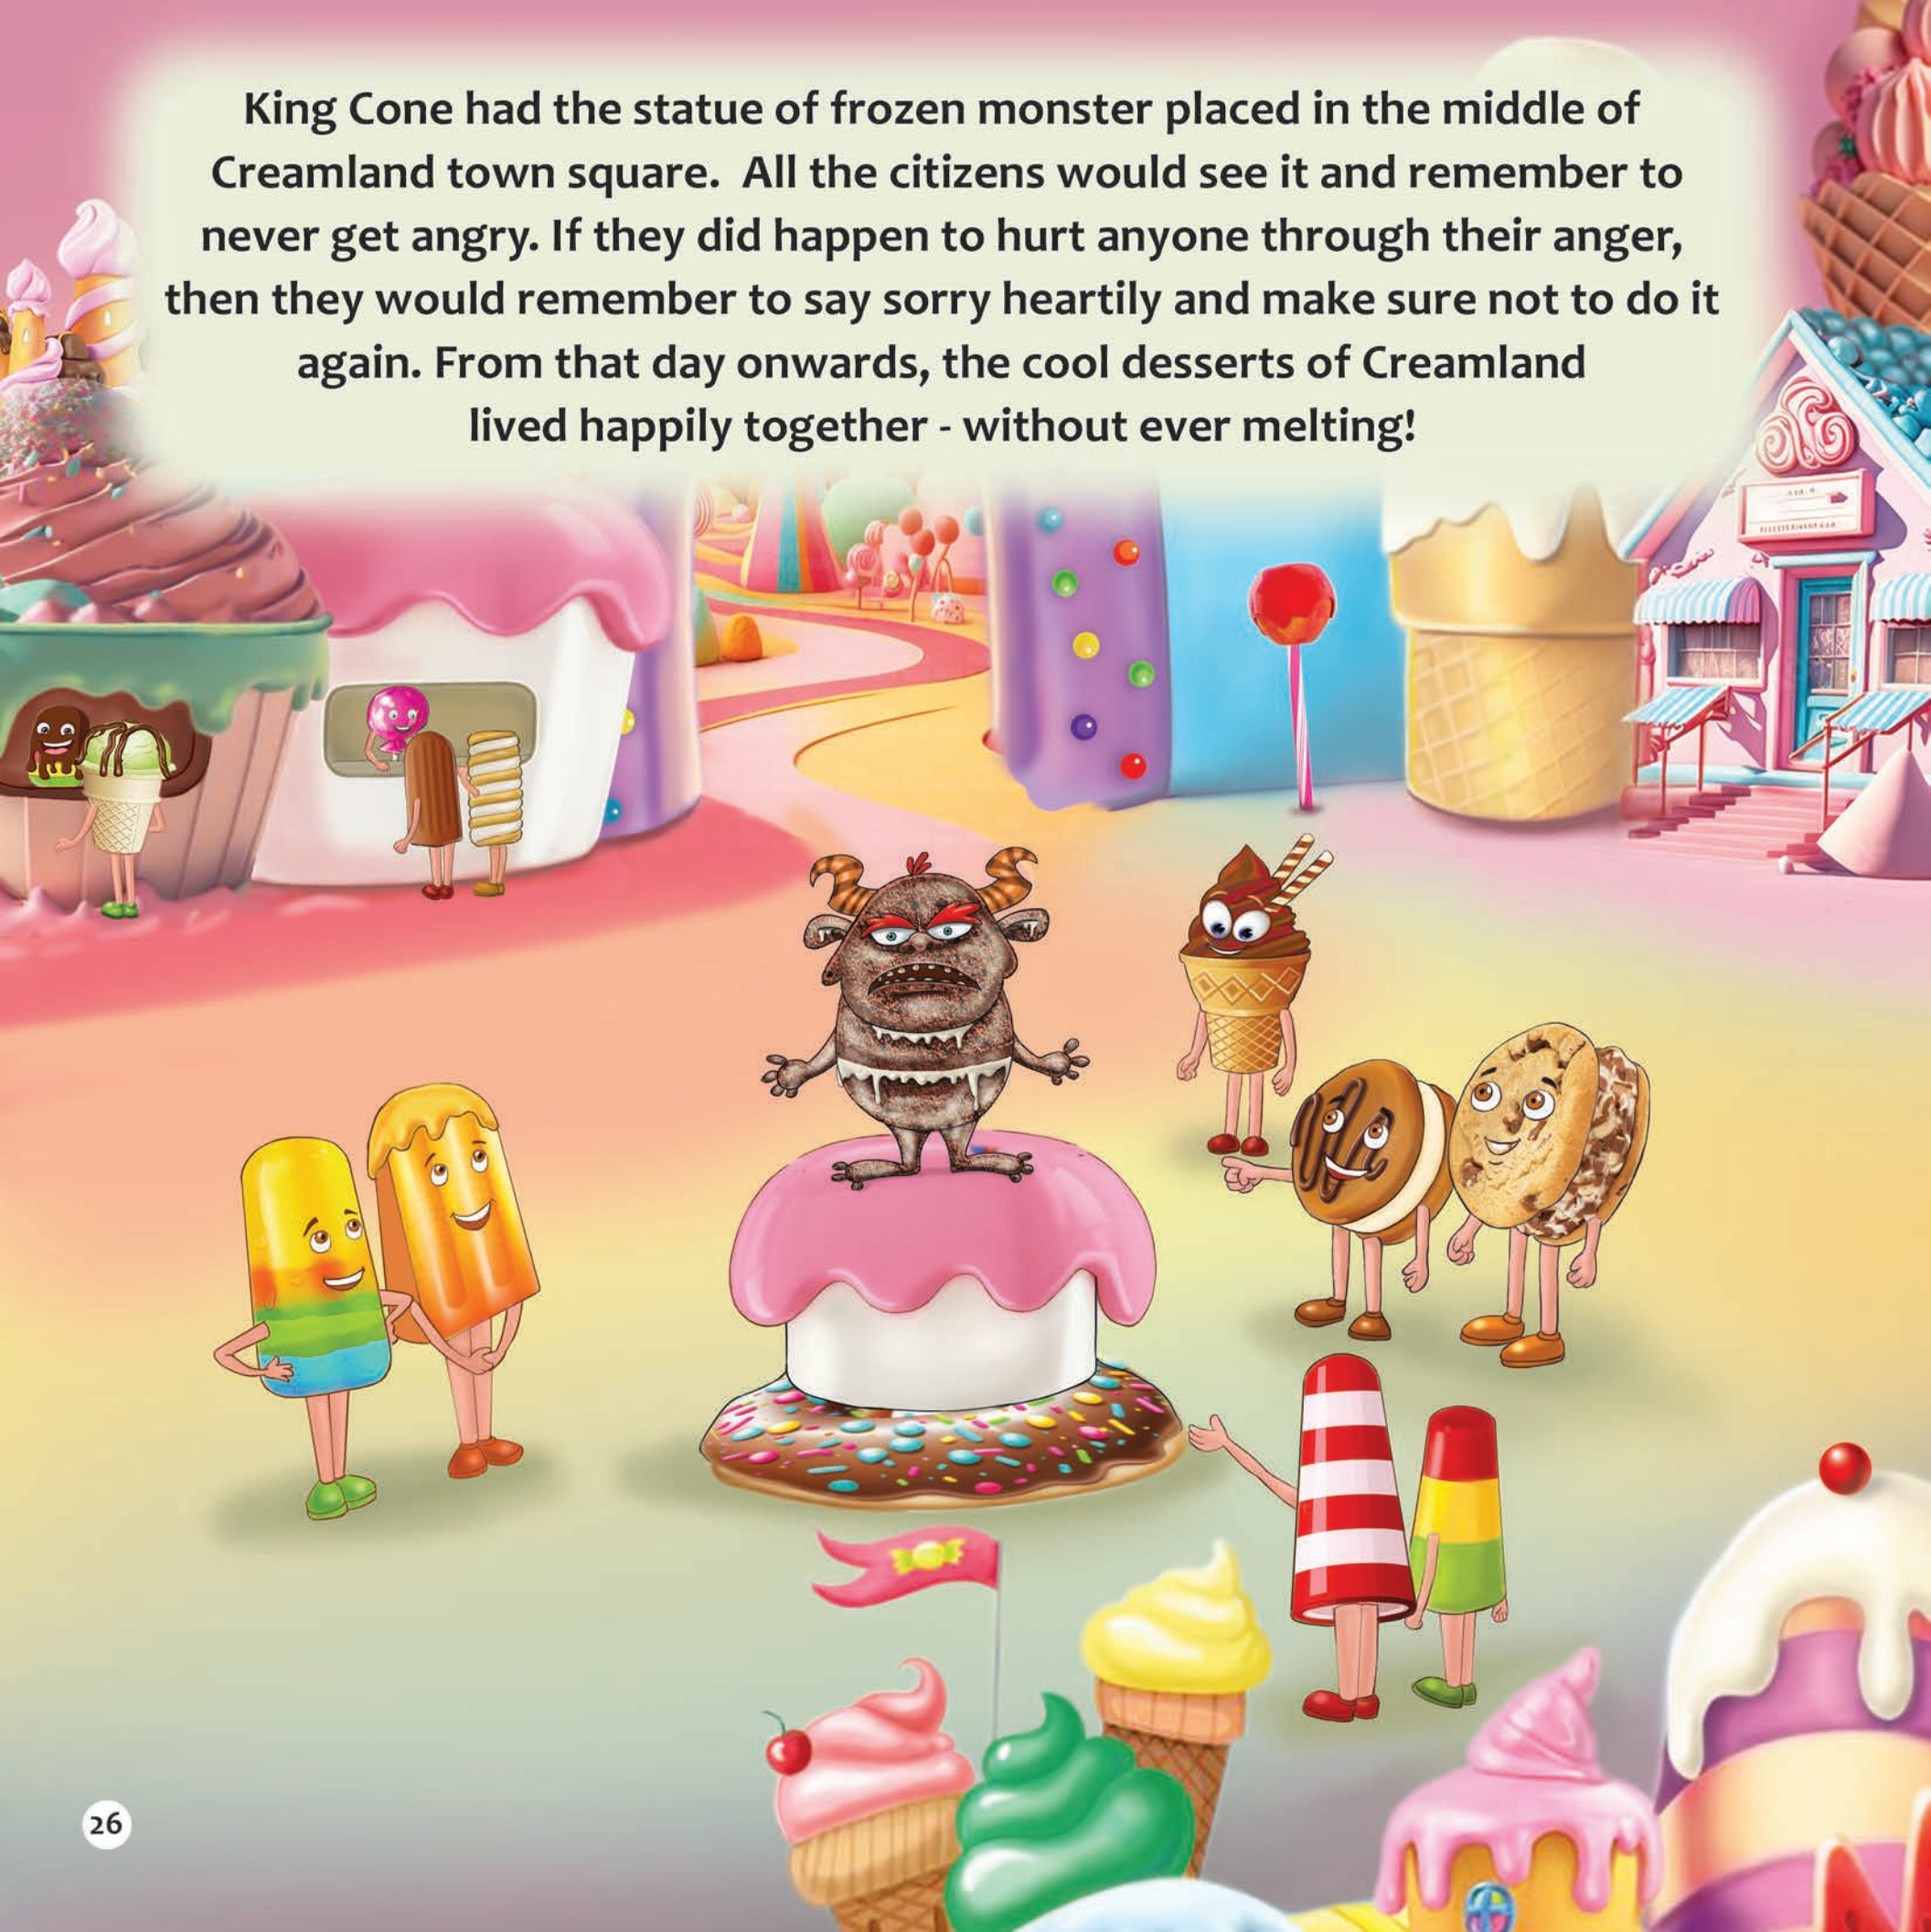

I won't do it again.

It was my mistake.

“Oh no no no! This can't be happening. Brr, brr... it's suddenly so cold, my hot lava heart has become frozen!” Hot Lava-Cake monster was very scared... As the temperature became normal in Creamland, the monster started to shrink and freeze, till gradually became completely frozen.

King Cone had the statue of frozen monster placed in the middle of Creamland town square. All the citizens would see it and remember to never get angry. If they did happen to hurt anyone through their anger, then they would remember to say sorry heartily and make sure not to do it again. From that day onwards, the cool desserts of Creamland lived happily together - without ever melting!

Dadaji Says...

God is within everyone. Therefore, we should not get angry at anyone. To get angry means that we are already hurt. If we are already hurt, only then would we get angry at others, right! And if we get angry, then the other person will be hurt. One cannot be called brave if they are hurting others. Only weak people get angry.

Everyone will like a person who does not get angry at anyone. So, if we get angry, then we should immediately say 'sorry' to the other person.

Prayer

If we get angry with someone, then we should immediately close our eyes, join our hands and say this prayer while remembering the name of the person (insert their name in the blank spaces) we were angry with:

'Oh Lord within _____ , I am asking for forgiveness for getting angry at _____. Please forgive me. I will never get angry again. Please give me the strength to not repeat this mistake.'

Creamland is a land of cool desserts like ice lollies, cupcakes, ice creams and popsicles, all living happily under the rule of King Cone. Suddenly, the citizens start to melt!! What caused them to melt? Will they regain their shapes? Can Creamland be saved, or will it need to be renamed?
